

Burgess to Head Alumni Board

Al Burgess, Jr., Joplin insurance agent, was selected president of the Joplin Junior College Alumni Association for 1957-58 at the annual Student-Alumni banquet last Friday night in the dining room of the First Methodist Church. He will succeed Ed Farmer, Jr.

Named to the posts of vice-president and secretary-treasurer were Robert Wiggins and Phyllis Brooks Brock, respectively. Other new board members include Max Collins, Carolyn Ritchhart, JoAnn Williams, and Kemp Owen. Farmer automatically becomes a member at large.

Principal speaker at the banquet was Charles L. Davis, Jr., former J.J.C. student who presently is serving in the Kansas state legislature. Davis called for more active participation in governmental affairs by well-educated individuals. He indicated that many of today's lawmakers are not fully competent. He said this situation results in the passage of inferior laws and malfunctioning of governmental processes.

Some 125 persons attended the banquet, which also featured brief addresses by President Roi S. Wood, Dean Maurice L. Litton, and George Campbell, vice-president of the Student Senate.

College Receives Valuable Papers

Two rare and interesting copies of early-day Joplin Junior College newspapers were presented to the College last Friday night by Charles L. Davis, Jr., speaker at the Alumni-Student banquet.

One of the publications, entitled "The Challenge," was probably the first organized attempt to publish a regular student newspaper. The publisher of the single issue, appearing November 23, 1938, was Davis, who said that this copy is the first one to come from the press. Purposes of the publication, as stated in an editorial, were to "build up its institution and to inform its readers."

A copy of Volume I, Issue I, of The Chart also was given to the College. Although a far cry from the present-day Chart, the issue of November 10, 1939, is an informative, four-page publication featuring news concerning the College. Editor of the first official newspaper was Kenneth McCaleb, who had contributed to the only issue of the previous year. The primary purposes of The Chart were synonymous with those of The Challenge.

Information about The Challenge was most opportune since sophomore staff members were just ready to start pasting historical materials that they have compiled about the College newspaper into a Chart scrapbook.

The original copies will probably be put on display as soon as a desirable place can be found.

Will You Help?

Roars of laughter and a burst of applause from the audience indicated that Moliere's, "The Physician in Spite of Himself" was received as another popular production for the year. Every night the "ringside" seats were filled to capacity and at times the aisles were filled with spectators to watch the brilliant performances. It had all the makings of a great play, except for one thing. Joplin Junior College students were missing.

What is wrong? Are we afraid to show our faces in public places? Do we lack interest in good performances and cultural activities? This is not the first time that students have been noticeably absent from College performances. The same observation has been made at football games, at basketball games, and at recitals. Gratefully townspeople attend, but school representatives are few.

Must we conclude that the majority of Juco students have no interest in good performances of their classmates? Does a job prevent your attending? What is the answer? We appeal to each of you for suggestions that might improve the situation.

We know that several faculty members are willing to make added efforts so that you may enjoy school-sponsored events, but at present they are at a loss as to what you want. Mr. Brietzke did suggest that he will schedule an afternoon dramatic performance next year if you will attend.

In an attempt to solve this dilemma, The Chart staff will serve as an intermediary. Beginning today, you will find a suggestion box in Room 308 into which you may drop unsigned suggestions which we will compile for the administration. Also we invite you to look at the Masthead on this page to see who we are and to discuss the problem with us. We want your ideas, and we will respect your confidence. With your cooperation, we can solve this problem.

The Soap Opera

By Donna Sellers

When it comes to watching television
We are taught to be selective,
But somewhere down the line
I must have lost all my perspective.

For there's one show I simply wouldn't
Ever dream of missing.
My blood runs cold each time I hear
That mean old villain hissing.

Now yesterday, when we left off,
The heroine was fainting;
Her artist-husband couldn't seem
To sell one single painting.

Her sister's husband's brother's wife
Has gone to see a lawyer,
For everything in Grandpa's will
Was given to Buzz Sawyer.

Poor Portia's love for Harry's son
Is somewhat unrequited,
And yesterday her brush with death
Made everyone excited.

"Just plain old Bill" is standing near
To give his sound advice,
I wonder sometimes how he always
Can be so precise.

Yet faithfully I watch that show,
For me there is no other,
Or also for my uncle's niece's
Husband's cousin's brother.

College Takes Poll in Pursuit Of Solution to Needs of Youth

In an attempt to gain insight into the problems and needs of young people in Joplin, and to discover principles which might have far reaching significance in planning programs to meet these needs and solve these problems, Dean Maurice Litton and Dr. Lloyd Dryer prepared a questionnaire and administered it to the students of Joplin Junior College in March.

From 138 single male students, the 77 single female students, and the 37 male and female married students who took the questionnaire, the following data has been compiled.

The clock hours spent in class each week by single males, single females, and married students average 16 to 20.

Married Students Study More

The single male student spends between 6 and 10 hours studying; the single female student spends 11 to 15; and the married students study 16 to 20 hours per week.

Thirty-one and nine tenths percent of the single male and 58.4 percent of the female students do not work part or full time while the average percentage of married students work 36 hours per week, or more.

All three groups watch television between 6 and 10 hours per week. The single male student averages three hours per week at the movies; the single female student averages two hours per week; the married students average one hour per week.

Thirty-nine and eight tenths percent of the single male students and 66.3 percent of the single female students spend 1 to 3 hours engaged in some type of sports.

Sunday Activities

In all cases, the largest percentage of Juco students attend church on Sunday mornings, with sleeping and loafing coming in second. The afternoons are generally spent studying. Television ranks second to studying. Sunday evenings, again are spent studying (1) and watching television (2).

Pair, Quartet End Education Together

In the fall of 1943, a boy and a girl began school in Joplin. A few miles away, in Webb City, a girl and three boys began the first grade. This pair and this quartet remained together for fourteen years. Now they have come to the end of their long journey, for their graduation from Joplin Junior College marks its close.

Kathryn Walker and Larry Robbins entered Royal Heights grade school together. From there they went to East Junior High School, and then on to Joplin Senior High School, where they graduated in 1955. In the fall of that same year, they entered Juco. Jane Kirk, Phil Bellairs, John Wilhite, and Dee Conner compose the quartet. They went to grade school at Eugene Field, then to Webb City High School. After graduation, they entered J.J.C. in the fall of 1955.

While these examples are interesting, there may be still others which are just as surprising.

Kissin' Kin

By Beverly Kluge

Those doggone neighbors down the hill,
They make me so blamed mad.
They're always pickin' at my ma,
And cussin' at my dad.

We sure don't give a hoot for them,
And that sure ain't no lie.
Why we'd as soon to throw the bums
A clean up to the sky.

I sure was mad t'other day;
I coulda chewed a nail;
I found one mongrel sneakin' up
To tamper with our mail.

Why sure I lit right into him,
Why, what else could I do?
I knocked his cottonpickin' ears
Right down a notch or two.

I'll say this much for him it's true,
He boxes like no other.
I guess he really ought to though,
Since he's my older brother.

Most students attend church once a week with relatives, and a high percentage of students agree that churches do a great deal of good. The churches attended are headed first by the Baptist, all three groups; (2) Methodist - male and female single, (3) Christian - male single and married, (4) Presbyterian - female single.

Student Drinking

Fifty-one and four tenths percent of the single male students drink; 15.6 percent of the female students; and 53.6 percent of the married students. When the question was raised as to the extent of drinking, 14.8 percent of the single male students replied that they drank daily; approximately 30 percent drink weekly and monthly. The average single female student drinks infrequently; and the married student also drinks infrequently with the weekly listing running second.

The reason most students gave for drinking is social pressure, with "tastes good" and "escape" in second and third places.

Dating and Going Steady

Thirty-five and six tenths percent of the single male students date only once a week, while the single female dates about twice a week. Many of the students do not go steady. In fact, 71.1 percent of the males and 72.4 percent of the females do not.

The average age the single male started dating was age 14; the single female and married student began dating at age 16.

Junior College single males feel that boys should begin dating at age 15; single females and married students feel that boys should begin dating at age 16. The single male feels that girls should start dating at age 14; single female students say age 15; and married students suggest age 16.

All three groups agree that boys should not go steady before age 18. Single male students feel that girls should begin going steady at age 17, and single female and married students agree on age 18.

Nancy Hopkins, Rayma Hammer, Sharon Black To Top Newspaper Staff Positions Next Fall

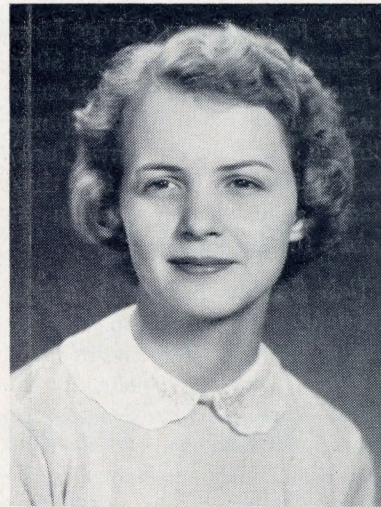

Nancy Hopkins will edit The Chart next year assisted by Rayma Hammer, associate editor, and Sharon Black, make-up editor.

The girls were selected by Ron Martin, Carolyn Peterson, Jerry Cooper, Marian Scott, and Miss Cleetis Headlee, journalism instructor.

Others designated at this time for responsibilities are Sue Henson, publicity chairman; Marion Ellis, sports; and Dale Allen and Jim Robson, photographers.

The policy of the newspaper is to name only those to editorial positions who possess certain personal qualifications and who have met two specific requirements. They must have been enrolled in Survey of Journalism for at least one semester, and they must have contributed to The Chart for two semesters.

The retiring editors recommended that the tenure of each office be for one semester only.

Six Apply For Internship

Marian Herrin, Mary Ann Tutt, Bill Moody, Walter Redmon, Francis Bennett, and Kenneth Cope have applied for the Congressional Internship to be held in Washington, D. C., this summer. One intern will be selected from each of the participating schools which are Southwest Missouri State College, Drury College, and Joplin Junior College.

The program is to encourage youth to become active in politics by observing Congress in action for one week as the guests of Charlie Brown, Congressman for the Seventh Congressional District.

Notes in Shorthand

Virginia Neff has passed a 100-word test for which she received a coveted medal. Her performance included taking dictation for five minutes and then transcribing it with at least ninety-five percent accuracy. Pat Brown has passed a test in which she took dictation for three minutes with 120-words per minute. Both girls are in the advanced shorthand class.

Beginners who recently passed a 70-word per minute test include: Joyce Blackburn, Bonnie Casey, Bobbe Conrow, Joe Roche, Wilma Fennell, Jean Swanson, and Imogene Wise. Sue Holland and Patt Frazier Wilson passed a 90-word per minute test.

An added news item concerning the commercial students is that some of them served as secretaries for the piano workshop and festival held May 10 and 11. Girls participating were Carol Klimpt, Pat Brown, Delois Martin, Marjorie Campbell, Nancy Roam, Beth Owen, and Sue Holland.

Pardon Me — Your Manners Are Showing

"Conduct is three-fourths of our life and its greatest concern."

Miss Lela Smith's Business Communications class realized this concern in a recent survey of manners in which teachers and the members of the Communications class listed the courtesies which they would like to see improved on the part of other students and teachers.

The complaint which brought the most discussion came from the students in class who are annoyed by the noise which is caused by loafers in the corridors.

The survey results, which serve as a check list for good manners, follow.

During class sessions and assemblies the student avoids loafing in the halls, on the stairs, or in front of lockers.

He attends assemblies and gives his undivided attention to the program.

He arrives at assembly on time and stays for the entire program.

In class he pays attention and allows others to pay attention.

He furnishes his own supplies (paper, pencil, etc.) for classroom use.

He sits relaxed without sprawling.

He avoids chewing gum in class or in assembly, and he avoids chewing noisily in the library.

He is quiet in the library; he observes library rules by returning books and magazines in good condition when they are due.

He helps to keep his school neat by placing wastepaper and cigarette stubs in the containers.

He takes his place in the line in the cafeteria.

When he leaves the table in the cafeteria, he removes dirty dishes, pop bottles, and other refuse.

He knows that there is a proper time and place for everything; therefore, he does not "romance" in the halls.

If he performs in an assembly or program, he returns all borrowed properties with proper acknowledgement or appreciation to the lender. He also cleans up rooms or the stage after the performance.

He knows school property is for his use while he is in school, so he does not mar, destroy, or deface school property of any kind.

He does not contract bills for a group without first getting proper approval.

When a student accepts a job or responsibility, he does the necessary work promptly and graciously.

He always remembers to use "Thank You" and "Please" generously.

He drives his car with courteous consideration for the rights of others.

When he receives an invitation, he answers it promptly.

As a member of an organization, he gives his undivided attention to the officer presiding.

Usually a boy allows a girl to precede him. He also rises when he is introduced to a girl or woman. Usually he offers her his chair.

Usually a girl allows an older woman to precede her. She also rises when she is introduced to an older woman.

When groups are on a trip in a car, a person controlling the radio or ventilation should consider all persons in the car. At least, he should inquire as to their wishes.

He refrains from breaking into other people's conversations.

When he is in conversation with non-smokers, he either refrains from smoking or inquires, "Does this bother you?"

Students or teachers using classrooms after school or in the evening should leave the rooms as they found them.

The teacher should give assignments at least one week in advance so that students may allot their time more profitably and effectively.

Cope, Redmon Write on Local Teen-age Problems In Research Papers

As part of the semester's work in Mrs. Mary Kirk Kelly's sociology class, students were required to turn in research themes. As a result, Mrs. Kelly received two themes which dwelt on local subjects.

Kenneth W. Cope's theme was entitled "Sociological Effect of Drug Addiction Among Teen-Agers." In his paper, he explained that the peddling of drugs to teenagers is steadily increasing. As the narcotics problem is not an individual problem but one of society as a whole, Cope urged the public to unite their efforts to curtail the supply of narcotics as a means of solving the problem.

"Juvenile Delinquency in Joplin" was the title of Walter Lyle Redmon's theme in which he said that juvenile delinquency in Joplin and cities of comparable size is definitely increasing. After interviews with two probation officers, a minister, and a Negro school principal, Redmon concluded that the main cause for juvenile delinquency is poor family surroundings. He stated that there are many organizations which are doing much to decrease juvenile delinquency, but the real solution comes through the efforts of the "grass roots" or family.

Speedy and Lions Garner Second Place at Ft. Scott

The Joplin Junior College Lions captured second place April 30 in a track meet at Fort Scott, Kansas. The Kansas City Kansas Junior College was breathing down Juco's neck with 33 points for third place, right under Joplin's 35 points for second.

Bob Speedy practically single-handedly won the second place for Joplin with a 17½ point total gathered with first place in the broad jump, pole vault, and high jump, and third place in the 100-yard dash. Bob also helped in the 880-yard relay.

John Wilhite tallied 5½ points for the Lions winning second in the 220-yard dash and third in the 440-yard run. John also ran in the mile relay.
